

Giromagi / Varieties / Aloinopsis

Aloinopsis

Shop Now Aloinopsis rosulata f. variegated

Starting from ██████

Shop Now Aloinopsis rubrolineata

Starting from ██████

Shop Now Aloinopsis setifera

Starting from ██████

View all Aloinopsis

The name of the genus Aloinopsis means "aloe-like", as similarities can be seen with some dwarf species of Aloe. These succulent plants are native to South Africa, where they grow on rocky soils and perfectly blend in with the surrounding environment. In order to adapt to the arid climate with scarce rains, they have developed large tuberous roots that allow them to survive drought periods. Thanks to the bizarre appearance of its fleshy, compact leaves, typically of bluish-gray colors, and its distinctive winter inflorescences, similar to daisies of varying, very bright colors, they are highly decorative and can be used to adorn both your rock gardens and your balconies, as well as designer pots.

CUSTOMER CARE

Purchasing Guide

F.A.Q.

Shipment

Packaging

Contacts

Terms and conditions

INFO

About Us

Backstage

Garden

Wholesale

Privacy Policy

Cookie Policy

LANGUAGE

Italiano

English

CURRENCY

€ Euro

$ Dollars

 GIROMAGI

© 2021 Giromagi | P.IVA: IT01508140512 | Loc. Landrucci - Terontola (AR)

powered by

